

Beirut, May 16, 2013

To whom it may concern,

For the past ten years and as the Production Manager of the Communications Office at the American University of Beirut, I have been working closely with various printers in the country for our publications. 53 Dots Dar El Kotob is one of the primary printers that I have worked with on various high profiled projects such as our quarterly alumni magazine, which is printed and distributed to more than 40,000 alumni around the world, several university catalogues, several student handbooks, and many other publications.

During these years, 53 Dots Dar El Kotob has demonstrated the highest level of professionalism, reliability, and great service. Starting from their reception area, throughout their sales department, production unit, prepress unit, and all the way to their delivery services, their team has demonstrated the finest level of caring, promptness, and dedication to their work.

The printing quality at 53 Dots has proved to be one of the best among high standard printers in the country, using the most updated software and modern printing techniques.

I highly recommend 53 Dots printing house and wish them all the best with their new endeavors.

Best,

Randa Zaiter
Production Manager
Communications Office
American University of Beirut

AUB
American University of Beirut
Office of Communications